

From: Scot Kreienkamp
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 11/18/01 9:26pm
Subject: response to the DOJ deal

Simply put, I do not think that this goes far enough in the remedies. The language in the agreement is vague and can be used to circumvent certain responsibilities the DOJ is trying to impose, which negates the whole agreement. And the penalties only last for 5 years? So in 5 years Microsoft can go right back to driving other companies out of business? How wonderful for Microsoft, terrible for the rest of the world.

I hope when you see the millions of other comments from people in the tech industry you will consider them. I've been in the industry for 5 years and seen much of Microsoft's antics, and my working life is often miserable because of the stunts they pull on the public using their monopoly.

Scot Kreienkamp
skreien@wcnet.org